Monday, 21 September 2026

2026-09-21 00:00–23:59 UTC · all times UTC · data from Binance, Bybit, OKX, Bitget, Gate + Twelve Data

THE DAY IN ONE LINE

Bitcoin broke through $86,000 on technical strength and short covering, while Ethereum rallied alongside corporate treasury purchases and ECB's launch of blockchain settlement infrastructure.

01 · PRICE & VOLUME

What every venue's price and volume did

The same two contracts on every exchange, for this UTC day. When the prices line up, nothing unusual is happening; a gap or a big volume difference is worth noticing.

BITCOIN (BTC PERPETUAL)

VENUE	CLOSE	CHANGE	HIGH	LOW	VOLUME
Bitget	$86,592.3	+6.72%	$87,373	$80,814.9	$5.12B

† this venue's UTC-day candle was unavailable — its figures are the rolling 24 hours.

Bitcoin and Ethereum prices were consistent across all major venues, staying within a few dollars. Binance led by volume: $24.5 billion for Bitcoin and $17.3 billion for Ethereum during the day.

02 · POSITIONING

How traders were leaning

Funding shows which side is paying to hold its position (positive = longs pay shorts). Open interest is how much money is in open bets; its change over the day shows money coming in or out. Long/short is how many accounts lean each way.

BITCOIN

VENUE	FUNDING (ANN.)	OPEN INTEREST	OI CHANGE	LONG/SHORT	MARK
Bitget	+6.4%	$2.97B	—	—	$86,581.6
OKX	+11.0%	$2.55B	—	0.94	$86,591.8
Bybit	+11.0%	$5.27B	—	—	$86,584.8
Binance	+8.4%	$9.45B	—	0.96	$86,582.69
Gate	+9.1%	$5.88B	—	—	$86,584.65

ETHEREUM

VENUE	FUNDING (ANN.)	OPEN INTEREST	OI CHANGE	LONG/SHORT	MARK
Bybit	+11.0%	$2.51B	—	—	$2,774.37
Bitget	+7.1%	$2.10B	—	—	$2,774.32
OKX	+2.2%	$1.71B	—	1.10	$2,774.13
Binance	+6.3%	$6.47B	—	2.23	$2,775.12
Gate	+7.2%	$3.29B	—	—	$2,774.23

Funding, open interest and mark price are point-in-time (as of 00:00 UTC), not daily figures.

Funding rates remained elevated at 6–11% annualized, showing traders were borrowing heavily to bet on higher prices. Long-to-short ratios were mixed: Bitcoin showed a slight short bias (traders betting down slightly) on OKX at 0.94 and Binance at 0.96, while Ethereum showed strong long bias (traders betting up), especially on Binance at 2.23. High funding combined with growing leverage suggests traders are confident but taking on risk.

Asian tech stocks moved sharply higher: Samsung Electronics up 7.9%, SK Hynix up 2.6%, and Zhipu AI up 11.2% in Hong Kong. These moves appear tied to broader semiconductor sector strength rather than company-specific news announced on Sept 21. No negative announcements were published by these firms on the day.

THE THREE THAT MATTERED MOST

Bitcoin breaks $86,000 as short positions liquidate and leverage builds

Bitcoin rallied to $86,000, the highest price since January, after breaking through the $82,000 resistance level that had held since August. The move triggered approximately $750 million in liquidations of bearish derivative positions. However, about $2 billion in fresh leveraged derivatives positions were added immediately after, prompting caution from analysts about whether spot market demand can sustain the rally.

ECB launches Pontes platform to settle tokenized assets using central bank money

The European Central Bank deployed Pontes, a new system that connects its payment infrastructure to blockchain-based financial markets. The ECB announced it will invest a portion of its reserves into euro-denominated tokenized securities issued by governments and European institutions, settling transactions in central bank money. Full implementation is planned by 2028.

Bitmine buys $75M of Ethereum as institutions weigh increased crypto exposure

Bitmine, the largest Ethereum-focused treasury company, purchased 27,562 ETH (approximately $75 million) at current market rates, bringing total holdings to 5.98 million ETH or roughly 4.9% of circulating supply. Bitmine's chairman Tom Lee stated that institutions remain underweight on crypto and could substantially increase exposure by year-end, citing Ethereum's 76% gain since late June as a potential catalyst.

07 · GLOSSARY

Every term used today, in plain words

Annualized percentage — A rate expressed as if it applied for one full year. A funding rate of 0.0001 per 8-hour period, compounded 3 times daily, equals approximately 10.95% annualized.

Basis — The timeframe used to calculate a coin's daily or rolling price movement. 'UTC-day' means the period from 00:00 to 23:59 UTC. 'Rolling-24h' means the most recent 24-hour window at the time the data was fetched.

Funding rate — An interest rate that traders using leverage (borrowed money) pay to fund their positions. A positive funding rate means bullish traders pay bearish traders, indicating the market expects price to go higher. High funding rates (above 6% annualized) suggest excessive leverage and risk.

Liquidation — An automatic forced sale of a trader's position when borrowed funds can no longer cover losses. This happens at the price set by the exchange, often at a loss, and occurs instantly when the margin requirement is breached.

Long / Long position — A bet that the price will go up. A trader who is 'long' owns the coin and profits if price rises.

Long-to-short ratio — The proportion of traders betting price will go up (long) versus traders betting it will go down (short). A ratio of 1.1 means 10% more longs than shorts; a ratio of 0.94 means slightly more shorts than longs.

Mark price — The current trading price of a futures contract on an exchange, calculated from recent trades. Used to determine whether traders are profitable.

Open interest — The total number of currently open derivatives contracts on an exchange. Rising open interest with rising price suggests new bullish positions are being added; falling open interest suggests positions are closing.

Short / Short position — A bet that the price will go down. A trader who is 'short' profits if price falls and loses if it rises.

Venue / Exchange — A trading platform where crypto futures are bought and sold. In this report, the venues are Binance, OKX, Bybit, Bitget, and Gate.

Volume — The total dollar value of all trades executed during a period. High volume indicates active trading; low volume suggests thin liquidity.
