THE DAY IN ONE LINE

Bitcoin and Ethereum rose modestly as the Federal Reserve hiked rates for the first time since 2023, while Congress advanced crypto tax reform and regulators pledged to write their own rules.

01 · PRICE & VOLUME

What every venue's price and volume did

The same two contracts on every exchange, for this UTC day. When the prices line up, nothing unusual is happening; a gap or a big volume difference is worth noticing.

02 · POSITIONING

How traders were leaning

Funding shows which side is paying to hold its position (positive = longs pay shorts). Open interest is how much money is in open bets; its change over the day shows money coming in or out. Long/short is how many accounts lean each way.

BITCOIN

VENUE	FUNDING (ANN.)	OPEN INTEREST	OI CHANGE	LONG/SHORT	MARK
Bitget	+5.8%	$2.56B	—	—	$76,434.2
OKX	+5.7%	$2.20B	—	1.73	$76,430.2
Bybit	+7.0%	$4.28B	-1.3%	—	$76,432.9
Binance	+5.9%	$8.27B	+1.2%	1.53	$76,437.3
Gate	+2.3%	$4.97B	—	—	$76,431.6

ETHEREUM

VENUE	FUNDING (ANN.)	OPEN INTEREST	OI CHANGE	LONG/SHORT	MARK
Bybit	+6.5%	$1.94B	+2.3%	—	$2,437.5
Bitget	+5.9%	$1.86B	—	—	$2,437.53
OKX	+3.3%	$1.56B	—	1.87	$2,437.6
Binance	+3.4%	$5.64B	+0.5%	3.20	$2,437.43
Gate	+5.6%	$2.89B	—	—	$2,438.02

Funding, open interest and mark price are point-in-time (as of 10:00 UTC), not daily figures.

Funding rates stayed moderate (Bitcoin 2.3–7% annualized, Ethereum 3.3–6.5%), showing traders were cautiously long but not aggressively leveraged. Open interest showed mixed signals—Bybit's Bitcoin fell 1.25% while Binance's rose 1.16%, indicating rotation rather than a one-sided surge. Long/short ratios favored longs (Binance showed 1.53x more Bitcoin longs than shorts), but rates weren't elevated enough to signal excessive bullishness.

07 · GLOSSARY

Every term used today, in plain words

Basis point — One hundredth of a percent (0.01%). When interest rates rise by 25 basis points, that is a 0.25% increase.

FOMC — The Federal Open Market Committee—the group inside the U.S. Federal Reserve that decides interest rates and monetary policy.

Funding rate — A periodic payment that long traders pay to short traders (or vice versa) in crypto futures contracts. Positive rates mean longs are paying shorts. High rates signal excessive bullishness and warn of possible liquidations.

Long / short — Long means betting a price will go up; short means betting it will go down. A long/short ratio compares how many traders are long versus short. Ratios above 1.0 mean more bulls than bears.

Mark price — The reference price an exchange uses to calculate profits, losses, and liquidations for futures contracts. It often differs slightly from the last traded price to prevent price manipulation.

Open interest — The total number of open futures or options contracts at an exchange. Rising open interest means new money is entering; falling open interest means positions are closing out.

Open-interest change — The percentage increase or decrease in total open contracts over a time period. A rise suggests fresh capital betting, often accompanied by larger price moves.

Perpetual contract — A crypto futures contract with no expiration date, allowing traders to hold long or short positions indefinitely. Traders pay funding rates to maintain positions instead of paying an upfront premium.

Rate hike — When a central bank (like the Federal Reserve) raises its benchmark interest rate, making borrowing more expensive and savings more rewarding.
